SUMMER UPSTANDER ACTIVITY CLUB – WEEK FIVE – AUGUST 5

PARENTS' GUIDE

In the past five weeks, we have explored the people in our neighborhood, Upstanders, Friends and Family, and now finally we are going to explore nature. It really takes all of these things to make up the world we live in.

By recognizing the parts of a community, this year's Summer Upstander Activity Club participants have learned to see the parts that make up a whole. Kids can learn that they can make a difference, just by appreciating and taking care of the people and places around them.

This week, our focus is on nature. For supplies, you will need paper plates, glue, crayons and markers, and attention to detail.

There are fun coloring activities, a search a word, crafts, and a scavenger hunt in our own Museum Peace Garden. Do not worry if you can't make it to the Museum, we're including full color guides to our space, just in case you can't make it to Skokie!

Remember to share your work with us! Pictures of the participants creating their projects, or their finished work can be submitted to education@ilhmec.org. Each photograph is another entry in a raffle to win cool prizes!

Thank you so very much for participating in summer 2022's Summer Upstander Activity Club. I hope these activities provided a creative outlet for the young Upstanders, and that you were all able to learn a little about more about all the wonderful things that surround us.
